

Yankee Pole Vaulter Easily Shatters World's Aerial Mark

Foss Aviates Over Bar at 13 Feet 5-1/8 Inches, Breaking Former Record of 13 Feet 2-1/4 Inches; Yanks to Appear in Paris and London Events

ANTWERP, Aug. 20.—(By The Associated Press).—Phenomenal pole vaulting by F. K. Foss, Chicago A. A. which broke all existing records and a brilliant distance race by four runners in which the French marvel, Guillemot, went down to defeat, furnished the thrills for the 10,000 spectators at the sixth day of the Olympic games today. The performances in both these events were exceptionally praiseworthy in view of the rain and cold.

The day was ending with a brilliant sunset, but with November like temperature, just as Foss, the former Cornell star, sailed over the bar which had been placed at the height of 13 feet, 5 1/8 inches. The old world record was 13 feet, 2 1/4 inches. Foss already was the winner of the first place for the United States in the pole vault, but he was urged to go on and break the Olympic record. This he did and then, after a consultation by the officials, the bar was set at the top height so that Foss might have a chance to excel the world's record. When the height of the cross bar was announced, an absolute hush fell over the spectators. Twice Foss essayed his task and failed. Then, after a long rest and all the spectators tense, he took an exceptionally long run and a terrific leap, sailed upward and curved his body over the bar like the letter U, snapped the pole backward and dropped amid a great splash of saw dust into the pit on the other side.

The crowds in the stands yelled themselves hoarse as the feat was accomplished, while Foss team mates lifted him upon their shoulders and Marched around, the band meanwhile playing. Flags everywhere were waving in unison with the melody of the band and photographers were scurrying here and there in order to obtain pictures of the momentous event.

INTEREST KEEN.

There was scarcely less enthusiasm over the 10,000 metre run, which developed into a sensational full distance contest between Nurmi of Finland, Guillemot, the Frenchman, Wilson of England and Macarrio of Italy—undoubtedly four of the greatest distance runners who had been brought together in years.

Although the American runners failed to make their expected showing in the 400 metre run, the Americans gathered first, second and fourth places in the 200 metres and second, fifth and sixth in the 5,000 metres steeplechase.

The American Olympic committee this evening approved of the entry of the American Olympic team in a French-Swedish-American meet in Paris and an Anglo-American meet in London. The Paris program includes 100, 400, 800, 1,600 and 5,000 metre races, relays for four-men teams at 400 metres, the 110 and 400 metres hurdles, the high and broad jump and the javelin, discus, shot and pole vault event.

The London meet will embrace the 100, 220, 440, 880 and 1,760 yard events, relays for four-men teams, the broad and high jump, the 120-yard high hurdles and the javelin and pole vault. Those of the men who desire to participate in the Paris games will be taken to the French capital August 29th.

THEN HIS PIPE WENT OUT BUT TED RAY WON THE CHAMPIONSHIP FIRST

BY HAL COCHRAN.
N. E. A. Staff Special.
TOLEDO, Aug. 20.—As usual there was a "lady" in the case! She spoiled his nerves. She quieted his strain of excitement. The man in the case was Ted Ray, English golf wizard. And for 72 trying holes of the open golf tournament at the Inverness club here, the "lady" was with him, aiding in a quiet and unnoticed way.

She was "Lady Nicotine." Not once during his play in the open golf championship did Ray remove his pet, long-stemmed pipe from between his teeth—except, possibly, to relight it, or refill it with "Lady Nicotine."

And on the seventy-second green, where Ray made the final putt that made him the open golf champion for 1920, "Lady Nicotine" made a last and spectacular play.

MAGIC PIPE. Ray made an approach shot that dropped his golf ball within about eight feet of the hole. He sauntered up to it and stopped. He tucked his golf club underneath his arm and reached down in his coat pocket for his tobacco pouch. Close to 7,000 people were grouped about the great open space surrounding the green.

Ray calmly took his pipe out of his mouth, filled it with tobacco—Lady Nicotine—struck a match on his trousers, puffed a few times and then stooped over and made the shot that proclaimed him the best golf player in the country. And, as he walked to the clubhouse, his long briar pipe ceased to smoke—it had played its part—it died.

RAY'S GRIP. Ray, as a golfer, is not unlike many other famous followers of the game in the way he holds his club. A great many of the leading golfers, if not all of them, bury the thumb of their left hand beneath the fingers of the right hand. Ray does this, too, but also more. He sets a more secure grip on his club by drooping the little finger of his left hand over the outside two fingers of his right hand.

In other words, he practically locks the fingers of his two hands. His left hand acts as the real grip hand. He secures the tight hold with it and then directs the swing of the club, as well as adding to his left-hand grip, with his right hand. His grip is the same in putting as in driving.

HOW HE STANDS. As to his stance, there is a difference between the new champion's driving and his putting. When teeing off or in the open fairway, Ray stands with his feet about two feet apart. When putting they are drawn to within about eight inches of each other. Many golfers bend the left knee when making a putt. Ray keeps both knees practically stiff.

Ray's golf game is one of deep concentration. He believes a man can play his best game when he thinks of golf, and nothing but golf, when on the course, and forgets it when off the course.

TAKES FULL SWING. The new champion, in driving off, takes a full swing, carrying his club all the time back of his shoulder. His drives, as a result, usually average around 300 yards. His play, in all angles of the game, is deliberate. He wastes little time in making a shot, but usually steps up to a fairway shot and smacks the ball as soon as he has sized up just where his next swing should carry him.

It was Ray's ability to place the ball in just that spot, his coolness on the green, and his endless consistency that won him the prized title in the golf world-open championship.

MAYS TO TWIRL AGAINST BROWNS

Manager of Yankees Announces That Mound Star Will Work This Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Manager Miller Hughes, of the New York Americans, said today that Carl Mays, pitcher, would be used in the series with Detroit, opening here this afternoon, "provided he feels equal to attempting any baseball within the next few days."

Mays was reported yesterday to be suffering a nervous breakdown, following the accident here last Monday when he threw the ball that fatally injured Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—No official action antagonistic to Carl Mays, the New York American league player who pitched the ball Monday which resulted in Ray Chapman's death, will be taken by President B. B. Johnson of the American League. The case is ended as far as he is concerned, Johnson declared today.

"I could not conscientiously attempt to make any trouble for Mr. Mays," Johnson said. "But it is my honest belief that Mr. Mays never will pitch again. From what I have learned he is greatly affected and may never be capable temperamentally of pitching again."

"Then I also know the feeling against him to be so bitter among the members of other teams that it would be inadvisable for him to attempt to pitch this year at any rate."

WHAT THEY SAY

HARRY DONAHUE

Smart boxers can get away with ring tricks, but the ordinary run mugs things up, according to Harry Donahue, former eastern lightweight, now on the coast. He says:

"Dirty tricks in the ring are the worst things a boxer can pull. He not only hurts himself, but he hurts the fight and the fight game. Some boxers are so smart they can get away with it, but the ordinary lads can't. Johnny Kilbane and Paddy McFarland were two of the trickiest men I ever boxed, but they had their work polished that very few discovered it. Kilbane had a habit of tripping an opponent and throwing him on his back. He did it to me and almost put me out. He had forgotten me with right to the chin and before I could recover balance he put his foot behind mine and pulled it from beneath me. I fell flat on my back, my head striking the ground with such force that I almost completely stunned. McFarland's favorite trick was to stab with his finger ends, particularly on the wishbone. The first stab would not hurt, nor would the second, but he would continue to stab, stab, stab, until the pain would become unendurable. Then he would switch to the Adam's apple or the eyes, or the sides are all right, but nasty tricks that mean the taking of unfair advantages are all to the bad."

MILLER HUGGINS

The New York Yankees have been a great financial success to the club owners this year and Miller Huggins can't help but beam with smiles when he talks about it. He says:

"Yes, New York will make twice as much financially as any other club this season, even if the team doesn't win the pennant. While Eabe Ruth has been the big attraction everywhere the big crowds aren't attracted due to his home run act. We've been on the heels of the pennant all year and a team that has a chance to win a pennant is always patronized. Then the Yankees are a slugging team. People get more thrills in watching a team that slugs. I cannot help but think that the ball is better this year than last. It could hardly be possible that there would be a new bunch of sluggers develop so suddenly if it wasn't due to the live ball."

In the individual rapid-fire pistol match, J. R. Calkins of Springfield, Mass., scored 98 for first place and the next five men have 97 each for second place.

McCarthy Suspends Star Bee Gardener

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—A statement that "as long as I am at the head of the Pacific coast baseball league, Bill Rumler will not play in the organization" was made by Wm. H. McCarthy, president of the league today, following an endeavor of Wm. Lane, president of Rumler's club, Salt Lake, to lift an indefinite suspension against the player for betting on the outcome of the pennant race last year.

"Lane holds a different opinion from my own and believes that my suspension of Rumler was unnecessary and that he is a good player and a good citizen," McCarthy said.

"I cannot conscientiously attempt to make any trouble for Mr. Mays," Johnson said. "But it is my honest belief that Mr. Mays never will pitch again. From what I have learned he is greatly affected and may never be capable temperamentally of pitching again."

"Then I also know the feeling against him to be so bitter among the members of other teams that it would be inadvisable for him to attempt to pitch this year at any rate."
